Away from sorrow and suffering,

Welcomed her spirit in,

A blessed peace to win. Gone thou to the dear departed, Friends and children to great. And oh! the unspoken rapture, Those gone before to meet. We would not disturb that pleasure For joyous seemeth the measure Proclaiming thy new birth. And brief our parting, dear sister On that evergreen shore

We'll meet, free from earthly trials,

For there they come no more.

REPORTS OF GOVERNMENT CHEMISTS As to Purity and Wholesomeness of the Royal Baking Powder. "I have tested a package of Royal Baking Powder, which I purchased in the open market, and find it composed of pure and wholesome ingredients. It is a cream of tartar powder of a high degree of merit, and does not contain either alum or phosphates, or other injurious substances.

E. G. Love, Ph.D." sephates, or other injurious substances.
"It it a scientific fact that the Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure."
"H. A. Мотт, Ph.D."

"I have examined a package of Royal Baking Powder, purchased by myself in the market. I find it entirely free from alum, terra alba, or any other injurious sut stance. HENRY MORTON, Ph.D., President of Stevens Institute of Technology. "I have analyzed a package of Royal Baking Powder. The materials of which is composed are pure and wholesome.

S. Dana Hates, State Assayer, Mass."

The Royal Baking Powder received the highest award over all competitors at the Vienna World's Exposition, 1873; at the Centennial, Philadelphia, 1876; at the American Institute, and at State Fairs throughout the country.

No other article of human food has ever received such high, emphatic, and universal endorsement from eminent chemists, physicians, scientists, and Boards of Health all over the world. NOTE .- The above DIAGRAM illustrates the comparative worth of various Baking A one pound can of each powder was taken, the total leavening power or volume in each can calculated, the result being as indicated. This practical test for worth by Prof. Schedler only proves what every observant consumer of the Royal Baking Powder knows by practical experience, that, while it costs a few cents per pound more than ordinary kinds, it is far more economical, and, besides, affords the advantage of better work. A single trial of the Royal Baking Powder will convince any

While the diagram shows some of the alum powders to be of a higher degree of strength than other powders ranked below them, it is not to be taken as indicating that they have any value. All alum powders, no matter how high their strength, are to be avoided as dangerous.

To Buyers and Users of Butter:

AM now constantly receiving large quantities of the much desired JUNE BUTTER, direct from the best of Vermont This Butter is packed in new, clean tubs, from 20 to 40 pounds each, and shipped in refrigerator cars from week to week as it is made. Itesides the tubs, I receive some in ten-pound boxes; and I have also contracted with one of the best of the daries to have all they make packed in neat, 5-pound boxes for my summer trade.

my summer trade. I am receiving very liberal amounts, and in order to keep my stock fresh, I will seil at very liberal prices. Also, by way of making a special inducement to secure new families for my butter trade, I will offer during the mouth of June these choice 5-pound boxes, (which usually seil at 33 or 35 cents) at just 30 cents a pound; delivered free. This Butter is being used by some of the best families in Quincy and Neponset; but as the "proof of the pudding is in the eating," I would invite all to give this a trial and see for themselves.

SATURDAY, JULY 28, 1883. " Let's Play."

Oh! the blessed and wise little children, What sensible things they say, When they can't have the things they wish for They take others and cry "Let's play!" "Let's play" that the chairs are big coaches, And the sofa a railroad car,

And that we are all taking journeys, * And travelling ever so far. Let's play" that this broken old china Is a dinner set rare and fine,

And our tin cups filled with water Are goblets of milk and wine! Let's play" every one of our dollies Is alive and can go to walk,

And keep up long conversations With us if we want to talk. Let's play" that we live in a palace, And that we are the queens and kings Let's play" we are birds in a tree-top, And can fly about on wings.

Temperance in England. CONTINUED.

I wonder where the matches are! The dickens take these chairs! I've nearly broken both my shins In stumbling up the stairs! It's very strange if Mrs. Jones Has come to such a pass— She weighs her boarders' lives and limbs Against an inch of gas.

The fire is out! I've told that girl

Just how to shut the damper down,

Twould take a crowbar to impress

What science calls her brain. I'll make a blaze. Confound the smoke

And thrice confound the flue!

But neither straight nor true.

No doubt her husband found,

Poor luckless wretch, his sole e-cape

My slippers-here they're flung at least

And here's my brush and blacking thrust

A poor, lone widow, so she says:

Was going underground.

A yard beneath my bed;

I'll be indicted yet, I know,

Beneath my very nose.

For breaking Biddy's head.

Among my laundried clothes

And all my soap and hair oil used

There's not a button on my shirt

I haven't got a sock; I cannot keep a handkerchief

Yet, as my simpering landlady

She gives the comforts of a home

The comforts of a home, forsooth

And live on stolen greens.

No warmth, no cheer, no light

Hints for August.

The comforts of a home, indeed

I'll court a girl this very week,

enough to ripen their seeds.

By the Sea.

Swings the tide, in its old-time way; Never too late, and never too soon;

And evening and morning make the day Backward and forward, over the sands, And over the rocks, to fall and flow; And this wave has touched a dead man's hands, hurry. And that one has seen a face we know.

But here, as they sink at our feet to-day. Ah, who shall distinguish their voices aright For their separate burdens of hone and fear

And only this song of the wayes I hear "For ever, and ever His will be done." Backward and forward, to and fro. Swings our life in its weary way Now at its ebb, and now at its flow;

Sorrow and comfort, peace and strife, Pain and rejoicing, its moments know ow from the discords of such a life Shall ever the clear music flow?

And to the blessed round the thron Sweeter than chime of vesper bells "For ever and ever His will be done."

Solitude.

Laugh and the world laughs with you; Weep, and you weep alone, For the sad old earth must borrow its mirth, But has trouble enough of its own. Sing, and the hills will answer;

Sigh, it is lost on the air; The echoes bound to a joyful sound, But shrink from voicing care. Rejoice, and men will seek you;

Grieve, and they turn and go; They want full measure of all your pleasure, But they do not need your woe. Be glad, and your friends are many Be sad, and you lose them all; There are none to decline your nectared w But alone you must drink life's gall.

Feast, and your halls are crowded; Fast, and the world goes by. Succeed and give, and it helps you live But no man can help you die. There is room in the halls of pleasure For a large and lordly train, But one by one we must all file on Through the narrow aisles of pain.

Absolutely Pure.

The Quincy Patriot. SATURDAY, AUG. 25, 1883.

For the Patrio Seek to do Right.

Seek to do right in the clear light Of the beautiful now; On speed the day when wrong gives way, And right claims heart and brow. With right comes strength, a source of wealth, Not always treasured gold, Prompts to defend a worthy friend, When wrong would right withhold. Seek to do right! not one life blight Beneath the deep-blue dome, Where angel eyes look from the skies On this our earthly home.

The one true way, that others stray They to the wind have sown. Life's busy cares unfold some tares That never wheat supply; Each casts a share, none perfect are, Past records testify.

But whence the test? What's right and best

There is a rule—the golden rule That teaches what is right To justice do be ever true Bid gloomy thoughts take flight And with good will overcome ill, And listen to that voice That seeks control within the soul, Making the heart rejoice

Seek to do right for love of right Let work and will unite; esults, though slow, for good will flow When principles are right.

The Quincy Patriot.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 8, 1883.

Sowing and Reaping. Will any one care when I am at rest, With white daisies blooming above my breast, Whether my path here was fair and bright, Flooded with visions of golden light; While stately lilies bowed their heads low, And drifted around me their scented snow? Or whether through darkness I toiled alone-Dashing my tired feet against every stone? Looking in vain for a brightening sky, While I fervently prayed that the end were nigh, present the cause in such light as would When the pale violet with pure-hearted grace Vould press a last kiss on my calm dead face?

whether the robin, with breast of red, Trilled his clear notes from the boughs overhead And the meadow lark chanted her matin lay o charm and soothe me from day to day; While the brown thrush, hid in the leafy bower, in favor of temperance. Warbled her hymn with creative power; or whether my bark tossed from side to side. on the merciless waves of the ocean tide; While the seagull wailed in a titful alarm Her fear of the crashing and pitiless storm.

THE MINISTER WHO FAILS to interest his congregation and build up his church is generally accused of being a past preacher, or of not studying hard enough. That is not always where the trouble comes from. Dyspepsia and liver disorders are responsible for many a dull sermon and many a vacant pulpit. When the Dominie's digestive apparatus is working wreng and his nerves are giving him pain, and his brain refuses to do its duty, it is almost impossible to make or to preach a good sermon. Give your suffering minister a bottle of Brown's Iron Bitters. You will see its effect on next Sunday's preaching. . The R Zehring, of Codorus, Pa., was paralyzed, and could not wank of crutches, until Brown's Iron Bitters made a new man of him. The Rev Mr. White, of Rock Hill, S. C., says: "It restored me to strength and vigor." Brown's Iron Bitters is not only for the minister, but for all people

'Nexth burning sun, and brazen sky The hot South wind goes panting by, And searching every cool retreat, With fierce, inevitable heat, Dries up the blood and boils the brain, Till man cries out for rain, for rain.

Oh! For Rain!

The horse, though stabled, reeks with sweat, The dog skulks panting through the street, The dreuling ox scarce drags along, The birds have lost the breath of song, The very fishes gasp in pain,-All breathing nature cries for rain. For even dew the garden grieves,

The corn rolls up its sabre leaves, The lawn grows brown and crisp to tread, The flowers, once bright, are dry and dead; They suck the gaping earth in vain, And all things ery aloud for rain. The orehard sheds untimely fruit, The grain-stalk shrivels to the root, The grape, half grown, forsakes the vine, The pasture cheats the wandering kine; Remembering God, we cry in pain, And plead the promise of the rain.
